AMERICA'S NEWEST BIG CIRCUS COMING TO ATHABASCA

Travelling on its own special caravan containing car after car crammed and jammed with wonders, and cage after cage of animals from every land, with tons upon tons of equipment, properties and devices and riggings, the all new, streamlined Wallace and Clark Wild Animal Circus will arrive in Athabasca early in the morning of Wednesday, August 26, and immediately a tented city will rise in the air. The first tent to be erected will be the "cook-house," where all circus personnel are fed; and next, the animal and horse tents, then the "big top" and sideshows. Huge elephants and horses play a prominent part in the erection of this tented city.

For the first time, the American public will have the opportunity of viewing "Mighty Goliath," largest hippopotamus ever captured. This huge beast weighs over four tons and is transported on a special iron bound and steel barred den.

The performance of the Wallace and Clark Wild Animal Circus is acclaimed by press and public as being high class in every respect, and no doubt this popular travelling institution will be greeted by large audiences when it exhibits in Athabasca for an afternoon and night performance on Wednesday, August 26.

J. M. DECHENE HOLDS ATHABASCA SEAT FOR LIBERALS IN CLOSE FIGHT

ATHABASCA — (BUP) — Long-time parliamentarian Joseph Dechene was re-elected in the northern riding of Athabasca Monday, as one of the four Liberal members sent back to Ottawa from Alberta.

Dechene had a nip-and-tuck fight throughout the evening, with the bulk of his competition coming from Social Credit candidate A. E. Pearce, who gave him a strong run.

Very early returns from Athabasca town put Pearce in the lead, family picnic at Island Lake.

About 40 relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson, and there were still others who could not attend. Mrs. Johnson says she had a wonderful time here, and she also enjoyed her visit to other relatives in the States.

but Dechene went out ahead midway through the evening, with the strength of Liberal support in the mixed farming district.

Counting for the night ended at midnight Monday, and with 133 out of 176 polls reporting, showed these results:

Dechene (Lib.)	6497
Pearce (SC)	5168
Philipzyk (CCF)	245
Gamache (LPP)	712

Mr. Dechene is one of the senior members of the House of Commons, having been elected in 1940 after serving several years in the provincial legislature.

Mr. St. Laurent's Victory

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's "homely" campaign personality won him an enduring place in the Canadian hall of political fame.

For it did something more than win a single national election.

It won for the Liberal Party a distinction which no other party ever has achieved in Canadian history: a fifth consecutive victory in a national election.

Shortly after Confederation, from 1878 to 1891, the Conservatives won four times in a row. But their attempt to make a record of five straight victories in 1896 ended in failure.

Then from 1896 to 1908 the Liberals won four times in succession. But in 1911, when they would have surpassed the Conservative record, they were stopped in their tracks by the late Sir Robert Borden in the famous reciprocity campaign.

From that time until the present no party has had a chance of winning that elusive fifth term. But with yesterday's contest, opportunity knocked once more on the Liberal Party door. And this time the Liberals had just the gimmick they needed to take the hurdle to an all-time record.

They had the "Uncle Louie" personality. Thus "Uncle" Louie St. Laurent, silvery-haired and 71, became associated with a political achievement which guarantees him undying fame.

Election Surprises

The Liberals were surprised to lose two Alberta seats—Jasper-Edson and Edmonton East—to Social Credit, in Monday's election. They were surprised, too, that Social Credit won again in Peace River and Acadia—constituencies which seemed to some to be lost to Social Credit.

Equally surprising and disappointing to the Social Crediters is the fact that they made no important gains outside of Alberta. In British Columbia, where they have a Provincial Government the Socreds won only three seats in the early returns.

Which all just seems to prove that Social Credit has lost none of its surprising hold on the people of Alberta and has gained little or nothing outside this province.

Serious Hail Storms

About five per cent of Alberta's seeded grain acreage has been seriously damaged by hail. Last week, Glen Elder, chairman of the Alberta Hail Insurance Board, estimated that over 500,000 acres had suffered extensive damage and since that time a number of serious storms have been reported.

Some of the more recent storms were reported as follows: On July 18th the area from Ardley and Haynes through Alix, Mirror, Meeting Creek, Daysland, Strome, Viking, Innisfree, Minburn and Derwent, with damage to some 200,000 acres; the Bindloss-Alsask area damaging at least 10,000 acres; Lousana to Erskine and Stettler on 15,000 acres; Ferintosh to Bruce; Acme; Linden; Wimborne; Clive; Bruderheim; Beaverlodge. On July 18th a severe storm moved through Balzac, Strathmore, Gleichen, Brooks, Basano and Irvine, destroying a strip five miles wide; on July 19th a less severe storm hit the Olds, Trochu and Huxley area, with local storms at Makepeace, Buffalo, Delia, Hussar and Jarrow. On July 23rd at Rosebud, Okotoks and Cremona; on July 26th at Penhold; on July 27th the Medicine Hat area and at Champion.

Grain Prices

Initial prices at the beginning of the 1953-54 crop year which commenced on August 1, 1953, are as follows:

Wheat — $1.40 a bushel, basis 1 Northern in store Fort William/Port Arthur or Vancouver.

Oats — $0.65 a bushel, basis 2 C.W. Oats in store Fort William/Port Arthur.

Barley — $0.96 a bushel, basis 3 C.W. Barley in store Fort William/Port Arthur.

The heart of the prudent getteth knowledge; and the wise seeketh knowledge. —Proverbs, XVIII: 15.

No War In Europe

General Alfred M. Gruenther, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, recently told a Senate Appropriations Committee he did not think Russia would start a European war. The General said, contrary to some predictions, that he didn't think war was going to come in Europe—in the near future.

This is refreshing testimony, and certainly frank testimony, from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander. Although Gruenther admitted Russia and allied Communist satellites had superiority in ground and air forces, he reported a steady increase in Allied strength. Gruenther pointed out the troubles the Russians were having in such places as East Berlin, and other areas. He compared the present situation to a battle when the enemy is about to be put on the defensive and asked the committee not to whittle foreign-aid funds too heavily, lest the opportunity of putting the enemy on the run be lost.

At the same time, it is being carefully borne in mind that Communist peace attitudes may only be a false fitting for a major war, and the democracies must be careful not to be fooled by a "Trojan Dove".

The Crop Year

Most industries and businesses use the Calendar Year, that is from January 1st to December 31st, as a period of calculating their results. In agriculture, however, with grain at least, the period used is called the Crop Year, that is from August 1st to the next July 31st, for by August 1st the crop harvested the previous fall normally would have been hauled to market, and the harvesting of a new crop would be in preparation.

In a short time, then, we shall have available some most important grain statistics about our Crop Year just ended. For instance; the amount hauled to elevators by farmers; the amount still unmarketed on farmers' farms; the amount that was sold for home consumption in Canada; the amount that was sold to the many different countries of the world and the amount of unsold year-end "carry-over."

These figures should be of interest to all farmers, and are worthy of being clipped and filed for reference, for, together with similar figures from other countries in the world, they will have much to do with governing the price our farmers are likely to receive for the existing "carry-over" and for the new crop now about to be harvested.

Tillage And Conservation

A completely protected soil through the whole cycle of cropping and summerfallow is an ideal that can be closely approached with wise choice and operation of implements. Under supervision of D. Tracy Anderson, Agronomist at the Lethbridge Experimental Station, much thought and effort have gone during the past four years to the study of the effect of tillage on trash cover and soil protection.

Tillage implements vary in their retention of surface-protecting trash. At Lethbridge they found that after three strokes on summerfallow the blade cultivator conserved 70 per cent or more of the original surface cover, the heavy duty cultivator about 62 per cent, and the duckfoot cultivator about 57 per cent.

The one-way disc buried about 50 per cent of the surface material with each stroke, so that after three strokes there was only about 12 per cent of trash left on the surface. With the flexible one-way harrow 18 to 20 per cent remained after three strokes under normal operating conditions.

Another point of interest is that while some implements bury the trash, others after the first operation tend to bring it back to the surface. Types of the latter are the sub-surface cultivators including the rod weeder. Where a disc type implement was used for the first stroke, and a blade type cultivator, heavy duty cultivator or rod weeder for subsequent strokes, as much as 60 per cent of the original cover has been conserved.

Which is the best implement to use? That depends. In years of light crop you will want to conserve all the surface trash you can. In a year of heavy straw you may be glad to bury some of it. Conditions mean much, but the work that Mr. Anderson is doing is giving us a deeper insight into just what we can expect of the various implements, and a knowledge that we can use as circumstances warrant.

Voice of the People

DEATH BEGINS AT FORTY

I disagree with your recent editorial declaration that Alberta's new physical tests for drivers should reduce highway accidents. The common-sense answer to fewer accidents is that speed is the true demon. Our roads were never built for the present-day racers that are sold as pleasure cars. Legislation should compel all car manufacturers to install 40-mph transmissions in all future cars except patrol cars, ambulances, fire apparatus, etc. Cars now on the road should have 40-mph governors installed on them. Let's slow down a little and live a lot longer.

CHARLES A. NEAL.

TEEN-AGE HEAT WAVE

A fearsome new teen-age prank should have parents, teachers and our courts up in arms to halt it immediately. The frightful game is called "pedestrian polo." The teenagers get in their cars and then try to get within a certain distance of pedestrians without hitting them. The driver gets 10 points for almost hitting an adult, 15 points for a teenager and 25 points for a child. In one school the other day a lad took after a chum and actually knocked him down with his car. You wonder how such idiotic antics get a start.

FRITZ.

THE LOVE OF GOD

God gave man reasoning, power and free will. With free will man advances in mental consciousness and knowledge. He feels more keenly and suffers accordingly. Man eats the fruit of the Tree of Knowledge and begins to suffer and is driven out of the Garden of Eden; but there is deliverance. Ahead is the shape of a higher consciousness, although but few realize it and still fewer have gained it.

Reasoning power with which man is digging into the mine of facts brings to light, new treasures every day. This stage of mental consciousness is bringing to man knowledge of truth of the Jehovah God—for the higher he advances the more keenly he feels and suffers as well as enjoys. And the mental suffering that comes to him, disappointment and the pain of others whom he loves is far worse than any physical suffering.

THANKS FROM RED CROSS

At this date it is still impossible to state the success of the 1953 Canadian Red Cross appeal, but there is a possibility that when final returns are tabulated it will be the most successful of recent years.

The support of the weekly press of Canada in the recent campaign was most gratifying and you may be sure that your interest in Red Cross has had a most influential effect on our success.

Your invaluable assistance throughout the year was recently recognized by Central Council, the highest governing body, which passed a unanimous resolution thanking the weekly press for its "valued support of our Society."

On behalf of the Society I wish to assure you that your co-operation is sincerely appreciated.

H. H. RIMMER, Chairman, National Publicity Committee, Canadian Red Cross Society, Toronto, Ontario.

LETTER TO LOUISA

Faithful Wife Betrayed By Unfaithful Husband Who Now Wants Divorce

Dear Louisa:

I am writing about a friend of mine. She has devoted all her love to her family which is her whole life. She has had some pretty rough roads to travel but she has always been true to her husband.

He has run around with a girl most of his married life and sometime back. He told her he was the father of this girl's child and she is about to have a nervous breakdown.

In spite of all this she still loves her husband and children and doesn't want to divorce him. Can you give her some advice?

—PUZZLED

Answer:

If the husband told his wife of his philandering, he was either doing so because he was ashamed and wanted to make a new start in his life or he was asking for a divorce. If he was asking for forgiveness and the wife still loves him, it seems to me that her best plan is to give him another chance although things can never be the same between them again.

On the other hand, if he is asking for a divorce there are many things to consider. If the wife thinks this is a passing fancy on his part and that he will get over his infatuation in time, it may be well for her to hold fast for the good of her children and all concerned. There are some couples whose dreams have been shattered by the misbehavior of one, but who keep up appearances and an undivided home for their children's sake.

Each goes his own way and lives his own life but present a united front to the public. Some people can do this but others would find such a situation impossible.

So it all depends on the woman—will she be happy as a wife under such conditions or would she rather be a divorcee? It is a hard decision to make and should be made realistically and not emotionally. Will your children be properly provided for in case of a separation? Will you have to work away from home to make a living and leave them without proper care?

I have no patience with a man who betrays his wife's trust but the life of a divorced woman with children to support is not an easy one.

Another runaway occurred when Mr. Jim Tesolin's horses ran away with a rake. Besides damaging the rake wheels, some fences and a wagon in Mr. Tesolin's yard were damaged.

Miles and Dee Graham are away on a holiday. Their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elder from Ohaton were up to visit and the little boys returned for a visit.

Social Credit Fails To Make Significant Gains Outside Alberta

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

(British United Press Staff Correspondent)

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 10. — (BUP) — The Social Credit Party failed today to dent Canada's national political picture, but picked up an extra seat in its home province of Alberta and threatened to elect four members in British Columbia. National Social Credit leader Solon Low won personal re-election in his sprawling northern Alberta riding of Peace River, where he piled up a much larger majority than in 1949.

He admitted disappointment at the failure of his 71 candidates to capture more seats outside Alberta, but laid the main cause to "inexperience" of Social standard-bearers.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta, who took an active part in the federal campaign, said he was "delighted with the provincial results," but said "other areas must apparently wait."

Social Credit had been boomed as a strong threat to take the two far west provinces, and British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett had audaciously forecast the party would capture many of the west coast's province's 22 ridings.

Social Credit stalwarts had hoped for a stalemate between the Liberals and Conservatives that would put Social Credit in a balance of power in the new house.

Low said he was "not surprised" at the re-election of the St. Laurent government, and said the main factor in the Liberal sweep was Canada's prosperity.

Social Credit candidates in Eastern Canada failed dismally, and most of them lost their deposits. In Alberta, however, the party won two seats from the Liberals, defeating J. W. Welbourn in Jasper-Edson, and A. Fred MacDonald in Edmonton West.

One Social Credit member of parliament had been eliminated in 1951 through redistribution of Commons seats, which amalgamated Camrose and Battle River ridings in Alberta.

Low, forecasting that the next federal election would result in increased Social Credit strength, said: "We are still confident the day is not far distant when the people of Canada will turn to Social Credit as a solution to their domestic and international problems."

As counting ended for the night in Low's Peace River riding, which the Social leader carried in 1949 with a majority of only 323 votes, he had 9,562 votes, compared to 7,294 for Liberal candidate C. B. Carignan, his nearest opponent.

The party's 10 members in the last House of Commons were all from Alberta.

Britain May End Meat Control

WINNIPEG — A hint that British government may shortly give approval to sweeping meat price de-controls and de-ratting has been received in a cable from the National Farmers' Union of Great Britain, by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The cable came up for discussion at the Canadian Federation of Agriculture's semi-annual meeting.

It said there should be a review of both interim and long-term marketing arrangements in view of possible new legislation.

The meeting also passed a resolution introduced by the Saskatchewan federation that the CFA request the federal government to establish floor prices on livestock and livestock products, including poultry meat, and floor prices for the disposition of surpluses while seeking to develop markets for these surpluses.

Those who arrive on time have a lot of waiting to do.

Industrial Empire Head Impressed With Alberta

A two-day flying visit through Alberta was enough to convince the 54-year-old head of one of the biggest industrial empires of North America that the province was at the beginning of vast development.

Philip D. Reed, chairman of General Electric, said in Calgary Wednesday before leaving for Edmonton, that he was so impressed with the rich resources and industrial potential of Alberta his brief tour would be the first of many more detailed visits.

Accompanied by Harold M. Turner, president of Canadian General Electric, and C. Morrison, executive vice-president of the Canadian subsidiary, Mr. Reed started his tour by company aircraft at Vancouver.

He said the corporation was planning to introduce a revolutionary system for heating and cooling the home based on the refrigerator motor and known as a heat-pump.

The chief of the vast organization known as General Electric is a friendly, humble man who has seen the Twentieth Century become the era of electricity.

Explaining that the company was just celebrating its 75th anniversary, he said it was expanding its sales by 17 per cent each year.

The billion-dollar group which has a payroll of a quarter of million employees, now produces an impressive range of articles ranging from capital goods to consumer goods; everything from the housewife's electric toaster to the powerful turbines which generate hydro-electric power.

With four associated companies — Acrods Corporation, Bailey Meter Co., The Stevens Paper Mills Co., and Tungsten Mining Corporation—General Electric has even extended its activities into the atomic and jet engine field.

Other departments of the great electric empire specializes in steel, chemicals, X-ray apparatus, car equipment, industrial heating, instruments, air conditioning and aeronautics.

Mr. Turner said that the industries of eastern Canada were looking to western Canada for its raw materials.

Discounting the "boom and bust" school, he suggested that the future of Alberta would see a gradual development of its resources to feed the east.

"Yes sir," said the instalment furniture salesman to a prospective bridegroom, "You just furnish the bride and we'll do the rest."

"If you don't mind," suggested the bridegroom, "let's change places!"

Distribution Of New Varieties Of Cereals

OTTAWA—One of the functions of the Canada Department of Agriculture is the production of new cereal varieties, and their distribution to producers of commercial crops.

A. E. Masson, Cereal Breeding Laboratory, Winnipeg, says that this season two new varieties, one of oats named Rodney, and one of wheat not yet named but known as C.T. 186, are being increased as much as possible by the Experimental Farms, P.F.R.A. and selected seed growers. Approximately 6,000 acres of the wheat and 1,200 acres of the oat variety have been sown. It is expected that a substantial supply of seed will be available for distribution to farmers.

The Rodney oat has been tested extensively and is superior to our present standard varieties in size of kernel, stem and crown rust resistance, smut resistance and resistance to lodging. It is in the same maturity class as Exeter but may not be as widely adaptable.

The C.T. 186 wheat has also been tested extensively and has resistance to those strains of stem rust race 15B that have been prevalent in North America. Further quality data will be obtained before the variety is named and licensed. This information will be available in the fall and if satisfactory the variety can be distributed for the 1954 planting.

Since C.T. 186 will provide protection against stem rust it seems logical that the initial distribution of seed will be made in the rust areas of Western Canada. Farmers who are interested in obtaining seed of either Rodney or C.T. 186 should write to the Laboratory of Cereal Breeding, Box 322, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg.

SOCIAL CREDIT GAINS TWO ALBERTA SEATS FROM LIBERALS

EDMONTON (BUP)—The voters of Alberta have sent much the same slate of members back to Ottawa to represent them in the new House of Commons.

Although the Liberal party termed the country for another term of office with a hefty majority, they have one less member from Alberta to sit on the government side of the house.

With all 17 ridings reported, Social Credit won 11 seats, the Liberals four, and the Progressive Conservatives two. In the last house, the Social Credit had 10 members, the Liberals five, and the P.C.'s two.

The Liberals lost two of their members from the last parliament but gained one when they won the new riding of Edmonton-Strathcona. Social Credit held all its seats, but had one member eliminated through amalgamation of the Camrose and Battle River ridings.

National Social Credit Leader Selkirk Low was re-elected in Peace River, and Mines Minister George Prudham in Edmonton West. The Liberals who went down to defeat were Jack Welbourn in Jasper-Edson, and Fred MacDonald in Edmonton East.

A recount will be held in the Edmonton-Strathcona riding, where Liberal Dick Hanna won the new seat by defeating Social Crediter Orvis Kennedy by only 16 votes.

LIBERALS RETURNED TO POWER FOR FIFTH CONSECUTIVE TERM

By JAMES R. NELSON
(British United Press Staff Correspondent)

The middle-of-the-road Liberal administration of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent was back in office for an history-making fifth term today, certain of filling out a full score of years as Canada's national government.

The administration, little changed since it took office in 1935, won another landslide victory, the second in four years. It elected another whopping powerhouse of 165 seats in a new parliament of 265 members.

The new parliament's life will extend until August, 1958, but the government is likely to go to the electorate again in another general election before then. No government likes to stay for its full term when it has such a commanding majority, subject to charges of steamroller tactics.

The Conservatives failed to make the gains even their most pessimistic supporters expected. What losses the government sustained went as victories for the CCF and Social Credit parties.

But the balance of power in the Commons will be virtually unchanged in the new house.

The new Liberal sweep at the polls rolled like a massive wave from east to west across the nation. It hit heavily in Newfoundland where the government party took all seven seats, made gains in the Maritimes, held its own across Quebec and Ontario, and then suffered a few setbacks in the west as the swell of the wave diminished.

A split in the Conservatives in St. John's, Nfld., contributed to the loss of the two Conservative seats there in the last parliament, and the only Conservative to be elected in Nova Scotia where the Liberals gained two seats was George Nowlan, Conservative Party Association president, in Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

The Liberals gained one seat from the Conservatives in Prince Edward Island when they defeated J. Angus McLean in the dual constituency of Queens, although another Conservative, W. Chester

S. McLure, will still represent the Conservative party there.

The Conservatives scored their first real gain in New Brunswick, where they defeated Dan Riley, sitting Liberal member for Saint John-Albert.

Liberal membership in Quebec was unchanged, but the Conservatives picked up one extra seat, increasing their membership to four. Five independents were elected in the place of four from the province in the last parliament.

There were several switches in party loyalties in Ontario, but the net result was that the Liberals lost only one seat and still had 52 of the province's 85 — in the province which still hasn't been able to get over its appellation, "Tory Ontario." The Conservatives gained six on the basis of the larger number of ridings carved out of the province in the 1952 distribution.

In all the central and eastern areas of Canada, only two CCF-ers were elected. They were the same two who sat in the 21st parliament — Claire Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South), and J. W. Noseworthy, (CCF-York South). The Social Credit made no dent in the east, and the Communists failed to win a seat in any of the 100 constituencies they contested.
